The and of the bullet hole in his clothes was contra-Brothron afterwards dined together, and a very | dictory to the manner in which the witnesses alleged he received the shot, as he was running away from the prisoner at the time. It was usual in cases of this kind to produce some evidence as to the motive of the prisoner for the act alleged against him, but in this case, he submitted the prosecution had not clearly made out motive. There had, however, been some evidence of a prior attack upon the prisoner, and from that the jury might imagine there had been a faction fight. They might imagine that in this fight the deceased had been shot, and the prisoner, seeing what had occurre i and fearing be might be implicated in it, had at once rushed off to the Police Station to give information, so as to clear himself. These were common tactics with Chinese in party fights, as was shown in the Gough-street and other riot cases. In those cases one party was always the first to go to the Police to make a report. If he had committed the offence alleged against him it Thompson. was extremely improbable that he would himself have gone to the Station at once to be arrested. Altogether there were so many doubtful circumstances about the case that he thought the jury could not, consistently with their oaths find the prisoner guilty. He was sorry he was unable to produce any evidence, but the prisoner's party seemed to have been all broken up and dispersed. He had studied the case very carefully, and had spent much trouble upon it, and he felt in his graphy, 2 books, by Mr. Mody. own mind that it was most doubtful whether I the prisoner had killed the deceased. He thought the fury must feel a sigilar doubt, and of that doubt he would ask them to give the prisoner The Acting Attorney General, in reply, read to the jury a technical definition of murder, and he submitted that if he proved the prisoner had fired the three shots as alleged and shot the deceased, he was guilty of the charge brought against him. Mr. Ho Kai had put a hypothetical case to the jury of a faction fight, but the prisoner himself had made no mention of anything of that kind when he went to the Police Station or afterwards. There was nothing whatever to show that anything of the kind had occurred. and if there had surely the prisoner's friends would have come forward to give evidence of i to save the prisoner when on a trial on this grave charge. No evidence of any kind had been called for the defence, however. Mr. 110 Km said he had endeavoured by all possible means to get it, and he (the Acting Attorney-General) knew that the police also had made every effort to procure such evidence, but without success. He thought he was fully justified in saying there was no evidence of the kind suggested by Mr. Ho Kai to be procured. When first charged by the police the prisoner simply denied all knowledge of it. The evidence he had produced, he submitted, was as clear as could be expected, and there was nothing in it to had the jury to reject the whole of it. As to motive, he thought that was shown in the assault which the prisoner had received from the deceased the day before the murder, when his queue wai cut, and he had otherthe Station, and the police having failed to wise serious reason to feel affronted with the arrest him it was not an improbable thing that having a revolver in his hind, he should, under Mr. VAUCHER—How do you expect to pay the smart of the previous day's affront, have fired at the deceased. The Acting Attorney-General was proceeding to give his own impression of the case when Tis Lordship said such a course was not usual > on the part of the prosecution in cases of this kind. His Lordship went on to sun up the case to the jury, and he went over the facts as disclosed by the evidence. He went at length into the assoult which was made upon the prisoner the day before the murder, and the probabilities of the them./ He thought it was evident something had to consider whether thedeceased was killed by the hand of the prisoner d by another person. and if they found it was ly him, under what circumstances. It might ppear strange that fter having committed such an act as that alleged against him the prismer should have run straight to the Police Station but it did sometimes like this a man did some atnous thing which was that which would certainly lead to his arrest It was, however, a matter for the consideration of the jury. His Lordship vent minutely into the evidence of the alleged eje-witnesses of the murder, and the discrepances pointed out by Mr. He Kai. It was for the urv to find whether or not it was the prisoner whi killed the deceased. and if they did, it lay upon the prisoner to prove from murder to manslaughte. RIOT IN HONGKEW.

The Mercury says :- A serious riot, which but probably have assumed very grave proportions, morning of the 17th December. The trouble their wages had not been paid to them. The shroff concerned in the affair was up at the Mixed Court on the 16th, but the case was settled on his assuring the Magistrate that the money would be paid to themen on the 17th. That morning shortly before noon, the gangers, who were on the lookout for the shroff, saw him in a shop near the Hongkew bridge. As soon as he came out they pounced upon him and dragged him to the Whari office, outside of which hundreds of coolies had assembled, the majority of whom were sent for, and Inspector Howard, with a few policemen, was soon on the spot. Eight of in charge, but on the police attempting to take rescue the prisoners. The coolies out side were no doubt overawed by the unusual display of force on the part of the authorities, but yet seemed quite ripe for mischief, and only needed a little encouragement to dive into it. With great effrontery, a man who, to judge by his dress, was not at all concerned by in the business, cried out "Ta," quite close to the inspector's ear. The Inspector grabbed at him, the man, ran away, but he was instantly pursued and contured. Happily the cry sal and Diamond pin, by Mr. Ribera, Spanish Consul. was not taken up, and the prisoners were safely lodged in the Hongkew Station. The Yvanovich, 1st for General Proficiency, a watch, shroff was very roughly handled, and although he sustained no personal injuries, yet his garments were all torn, and he was robbed of his watch and other valuables. It is quite true, writes an Irish lady, that ly known as "the Father of the Land Langue" -is about to become a Benedick. He has just written to a gentleman residing in the county Wexford, and in the course of the letter an nounces the approaching event. The lady in question is a Miss Yore. She is about six and twenty years of age, and is both handsome and accomplished, and has upwards of sixty thousand pounds in her own right. Happy man! Miss Yore is of Irish-American extraction and lives in Oakland, California. The circumstances are remartic. Six years ago when Mr. Davitt was stricken down by a serious illness in America, Miss Yore nursed him, and, as pity is said to be akin to love, must have loved him for the dangers he had pa sed like Othello. The marriage is to take place on an ausoicious day-the first day of the new year, 1887. Mr. Davitt is very popular in America; "the knowing ones" over there say he is a "man of great possibilities," meaning, of course, one who has a great future before him. However that may be, one thing is on the cards, that Mr. and Mrs. Davitt after the ceremony which will make them one, have arranged-Mr. Davitt. having previously addressed a few meetings-to. come direct through New York, on rout for the Green Isle, where he intends to take up his pernament residence.

POSTAGENCE NOTICES.

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addresses need do is to note on the cover, Sent to ----, or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the oud.

The Postal Guide for 1886, revised to date will be found in the Daily Press Directory p. 385. Jurga edition, p. 701 small edition. This is the only authorised complete Summary of Postal information published in Hongkong.
